The harvest in PasosLargos:	The 2004 grape harvest was Very Good in PasosLargos, and it was even Excellent in some estates.
Winemaking and Aging:	The grapes were hand-picked, deposited in crates and transported to the Winery where they underwent a second selection at the selection table. Our grapes are harvested only after the optimal maturity point is reached. A cold maceration is run before fermentation to preserve and enhance colour, aromas and flavour complexity. Each of the different grape varieties ferments in separate stain steel tanks for 6 to 8 days. Subsequently, the maceration lasts between 5 and 7 days. The wine is aged in new French (95%) and American (5%) oak barrels during 12 months.
